Introduction & Goals

Student Learning and Licensure (SL&L) by Watermark

SL&L will officially be replacing TK20 starting this Fall (2025). TK20 will no longer be used for any new assessments, assignments, applications, etc. However, if you need access to old data you can still continue to use your login to preview old data.

SL&L is designed around engaging end-user experiences. SL&L also collects program and course-based assessment data, tracks student performance against specific standards, and gathers student artifacts. In addition, students will create necessary applications and complete internship (field experience) assessments and documents within SL&L.

SL&L is a product of the same company (Watermark) that created TK20. SL&L is one of their newer software offerings, whereas TK20 is one of their legacy software offerings.

Goals for Transitioning from TK20 to SL&L

For...

- ✓ More intuitive and user-friendly interface
- ✓ Institution-based model vs. student pay model, no “hidden costs”
- ✓ Better, more streamlined, more useful & detailed reporting capabilities
- ✓ Additional support from Watermark
- ✓ Software that is regularly updated to meet institutional needs more effectively and adapt to changes

What will SL&L be used for?

- Key Assessments
- Student Portfolios
- Internship applications
- Internship placement information, assessments, and documents
- Submitting edTPA

Accessing and Navigating SL&L

Logging into SL&L (Student)

* Please keep in mind that login method is different depending on an individual's role, so for example student sign-in looks different from faculty signing in.*

Student Role Signing in to SL&L:

Students sign in directly on the SL&L website at sl.watermarkinsights.com. The first time you sign in you will have to click the “Forgot Password” link and enter your email on record. Follow the directions to set your password. You will then continue to use the password you set up for subsequent logins.

When you login for the first time, you may see a pop-up requiring you accept Watermark's user terms & conditions

Tips and Reminders for Students

- You must be logged into SL&L to access the Help Center using the ? icon in the top right corner of the screen.
- If you have more than one platform associated with your account (for example, SL&L , Planning & Self-Study, and EvaluationKIT), you can toggle back and forth between applications in the top right corner of the SL&L home screen.
- Be sure to frequently save anything you are working on with the “Save” button at the top of the screen, as data is not autosaved so if you close the tab/logout without saving you will lose that work.

You!
